A Tramp Inherits a Fortune.

A long article recently appeared in the Washington Post about a certain | Herring, c. Harvey Rogers who, after passing McDaniel, 1 b. through many vicissitudes of fortune, has come into the inheritance of a considerable sum, between $400,000 and $500,000.

A good many of our people will recall that during the latter part of last year a tramp by that name roamed the streets of Kinston, begging his bread and sleeping where he could-mostly in goods boxes in back lots.

It seems to be almost certain, from the facts published, that this tramp and now a balt millionaire is the same person who used to be seen around Kinston, apparently brooding over, and presenting a picture of wasted life. Some of our people recall hearing him Hassell, l. f. mention events in his life as they were recounted in a long article in the Washington Post, so it is almost beyond a shadow of doubt that the tramp and the now half millionaire is one R. Dunn 3 b. and the same person.-Kinston Free Hoffman, 2 b.

Oh, Try it Here Awhile.

Halifax county has something out of G. Dunn, l. f. the ordinary in an engineer. Any kind of a whistle is unwelcome in the morning when the day is just beginning to peep Mr. Thad Shaw, of Weldon, was here in at the windows, but if we must have a whistle let it have some redeeming qualities .- N. C. Baptist.

From the closing sentence we judge that the editor of the Baptist would feel like grumbling if he lived here, even at sweet music by the whistle of a passing railroad train. Well, we are not particularly surprised, for one's habitat has much to do James, r. f., 2 b. with his feelings and how things ap- Hoffman, 2 b. pear to him.
